REDDIT REPORT ON DOGMAN BY CHRISTIAN APPEL

The cryptid known as Dogman is very similar to a werewolf. One of the most infamous Dogman is the Michigan Dogman. The Michigan Dogman was sighted in 1887 in Wexford County, Michigan. Witnesses say the creature was 7 feet tall, had blue eyes, bi-pedal and had the torso of a man. When the Dogman howled, it sounded like a human screaming. There have not been any reports of Dogman attacking anyone. What makes the Dogman different from a werewolf is that the Dogman actually looks like a dog, usually having the face of a German Shepard or a Doberman. The werewolf will have the face of a vicious wolf. Some witnesses say all you have to do is clap, and the Dogman will run away.

SACRAMENTO SIGHTING
The first sighting of Dogman in the Sacramento area was in 1953, according to "anonymous". Anonymous says that the sighting occurred near the American River. Anonymous' mother was watching TV, when she saw at a lower pane window, the face of a dog watching her. She got really scared when the dog face was at a higher window staring down at her. This meant that she was dealing with a very tall bipedal dog-faced creature. She says that this Dogman was dark gray and had glowing red eyes. Anonymous mother later learned that their home, being close to the American River, was also close to previous Native American land, because people have found arrowheads and other Native American artifacts near their property.

ELK GROVE SIGHTING
Darion Wilcox of Seattle, WA who once lived in Elk Grove claims that in the Summer of 1962, his grandmother named Sarah saw Dogman out in the fields, which are now the Laguna Creek Wetlands. Sarah lived on a ranch that once was located by Francesca and Franklin Blvd. When Sarah sighted Dogman it was on all fours and sniffing around like a dog. Sarah was amazed at how large the dog looked in the fields. Then this creature stood up and it must have been 6'1". When the creature looked at Sarah, it gave out a blood curdling piercing scream. Sarah says that Dogman had red eyes, but when it moved its head, the red eyes turned silver in color. Sarah says this Dogman had the face of a German Shepherd. Darion also says that he had a couple of friends that claim that they have seen "ghostly dogs" on the trails. Just a sidenote, my deceased dogs Pika and T-Rex loved these trails when they were alive, I only wonder if the ghostly dogs could be my dogs from long ago. Wishful thinking.

2ND ELK GROVE SIGHTING
It was February 2024, 10:45pm at night, local Elk Grove resident Christian Appel, had his truck parked near the bike trail (by Leatherbees), that leads out to the Laguna Creek Wetlands. Christian watched people jogging or riding their bikes on the trail. As he sat in his truck and when the people were gone, he was shocked to see a large shaggy black creature walking on the trail. This creature had the face of a dog and was larger than a Mastiff. The creature was on all fours. Christian posted his encounter on Reddit and was asking the readers if they ever encountered anything like that near the Wetlands.

OUR INVESTIGATION

With three sightings, one as recent as 2024, there must truly be something strange going on at the Laguna Creek Wetlands trails. I once saw a strange hunched-back dark green bi-pedal figure in Elk Grove. From the distance from where I was observing this strange sight, I was unable to make out what I was seeing. I had to drive up closer, so I can identify this mysterious figure. I discovered I was looking at a homeless person that was covered in a blanket. The witnesses to these Dogman sightings are saying that they are actually seeing the dog faces on these creatures, so I don't think they are seeing a homeless person covered in a blanket. One of my investigators Xandean Smith and I, have been walking the trails to see if we can come across this elusive cryptid. I will keep you posted.

FROM ANONYMOUS:

The encounter I'd like to share is not my own, but that of my mother. She used to tell me stories when I was young, about strange things she had experienced in her life. I remembered this Dogman type of encounter while listening to your show, on YouTube. There's not particularly a lot of detail to this encounter, but what you may find interesting is the location.

The sighting took place in Sacramento, California, around 1953, not too far from our state's capital. Using Google maps to get an approximate location and lay of the land, I can see the sighting area was about 1000 ft to the west of and perpendicular to the American river. Across the river from the east bank, it's only about another 2000 ft east to the state capital. So, this took place fairly close to a heavily populated area.

My mother states, when she was about 12 years old, she was lying on the couch, watching television. That's when she noticed a scary dog face, looking at her, through a low pane window. The window was either on or by the door. I'm unclear on this fact. In any event, the head, she said, must have been about 2 to 2 1/2 feet above the ground. She covered her face in fright, with her pillow. After a minute or so, she snuck a peek, figuring she must be imaging things. She saw it was gone and felt a little better. Then, she noticed it was now looking through another higher window. Its head was now about 4 to 4 1/2 feet above the ground. According to her recollection, there was nothing outside that window for a dog to stand on. At that point, she just ran to another room, in terror.

She doesn't really recall what happened after that. She describes the animal as being dark gray, with glowing red eyes. Seemingly panting or baring its teeth. She didn't see the body but had the impression that it was thin. Unfortunately, she doesn't recall the time of day, month, or season.

My parents tell me there's likely some American Indian burial grounds in the area, as there had been excavations near the river, which yielded Native American arrowheads and other artifacts. I know it's been mentioned in some of the encounters you've presented, a proximity to rivers and Native American burial grounds. I even asked my mother if there were corn fields around the area since that too has been mentioned in the encounters. She said only the small patch of corn stalks in their own backyard. I don't think that qualifies. The area around my grandparent's house was not really wooded. The neighborhood was mostly large fields with a few horses and some cattle. The areas around the river are wooded now though and was probably a lot more so in 1953 than it is today.

Another paranormal story about this area is that on Monster Quest's episode detailing the Mothman, someone supposedly was taking dusk or night shot pictures of the Tower Bridge in 2009 and saw a flying humanoid shape or something fly off of the bridge. The Tower Bridge is in the 1000 foot range from my grandparent's house. Spooky!

Dogman at the Ciudad Juarez / El Paso, Texas Border
Paul Dale Roberts, HPI's Esoteric Detective
Halo Paranormal Investigations

Now, you are probably wondering how I learned that there was a Dogman sighting on the Ciudad Juarez / El Paso, Texas border. Well, it was from a simple conversation with a United States Border Patrol agent. I am now retired from the California Department of Fish and Wildlife, and I am now able to talk about these things. My titles at the California Department of Fish and Wildlife were Supervising Program Technician III and LRB (License and Revenue Branch) Custodian of Records. As the Custodian of Records, I was responsible in providing confidential documents to law enforcement officers throughout the USA and sometimes International. Some of these confidential documents would be sent off to judges and prosecuting attorneys. I would handle all of the subpoenas that would come into the office. The copies I would send off were stamped as "true copies" and signed by me. One day, I received a call from a US Border Agent, and he needed confidential documents on a California hunter. The US Border Agent had to testify in court and needed the documents as back up to his case. When the US Border Agent called, we had a pleasant conversation. The US Border Agent was looking forward to his weekend off and casually asked me what I was doing for my weekend off. I told the agent I had a paranormal investigation to conduct. This peaked the agent's curiosity, and he asked me about my investigation. This triggered the agent to tell me his story of working the border at Ciudad Juarez / El Paso, Texas and experiencing something of high strangeness.

THE STORY:
Before we got to the agent's story, we discussed how Ciudad Juarez is the femicide capital of the world. So many women are found dead and at one point of time Ciudad Juarez didn't have enough ambulances to pick up all of the dead bodies. We pondered if Ciudad Juarez was the home of many serial killers. The agent told me that up to 370 women have been killed in Juarez from 1993 to 2005. The agent says that while patrolling the border, he has seen ghosts and once even seen a full body apparition of a woman. The agent believes that the ghost he saw was a murder victim. He says that the border between Juarez and El Paso is very haunted.

The agent also told me he came across a so-called Chupacabra and realized it was a coyote with mange. The agent believes that all of the Chupacabra sightings are coyotes with mange, he does not feel there is anything supernatural with those sightings. But the strangest thing he saw was a Mexican immigrant running from a van on the Mexico side and heading into the US side of the border. The agent had his eye on the driver of the van. The driver was a pollero aka coyote, which basically means a human smuggler. As the van turned around and took off, the agent then concentrated on the Mexican immigrant trying to cross the border. As the immigrant got to the 18-foot fence, the immigrant changed into a hairy type of humanoid, his face looked more like a dog. The agent could not believe his eyes as he was telling the man to stop where he was.

Then all of a sudden, the man who now looks like a bipedal dog, leapt over this 18-foot fence. When the creature/man lands on the US side, he ran off on all fours, like a dog. The agent could not believe what he saw and never discussed it with his colleagues, because he did not want to be ridiculed. The agent felt comfortable in telling me, because I deal with the paranormal and have an open mind when I hear stories like this. I promised the agent I would never reveal his name, if I ever wrote about this when I retire and I will keep that promise. The agent believes he saw a man transform into the Dogman and I only wonder if this Dogman was one of the femicide serial killers of Juarez?

REDDIT REPORT FROM CHRISTIAN APPEL:

Has anyone seen anything weird at night on the bike paths?

I noticed that there's some people in our community who like to ride their bicycle, walk and or jog at night on the bike paths. Have any of you seen anything strange or unusual on or near the bike paths at night? More specifically near the parking lot where Leatherby's is located.
My strange story... It was a February late evening possibly around 10:45pm. I was eating my late dinner in my truck facing the bike path. I would sometimes see a random person on a bike or jogging by. However many minutes went by before I saw no one except a very large shaggy black creature moving quickly westbound on the bike path. It looked like a dog, but it was too big. I know in the past, there's been some Dogman sightings near the Laguna Wetlands Preserve. All these Elk Grove Bike Paths are in what seems to be rural areas near a neighborhood or a creek of some kind. This dog like creature was too big to be a Mastiff. I want to hear what you've seen out at night on the bike paths. You can also message me if your scared to share your story with all of us. No judgement here, I'm just looking for answers. Thanks. Here is a map with a red circle marking the spot of my sighting.

PARANORMAL HOTLINE CALL / 7/19/2025
TIME: 11:22 AM PACIFIC
CALLER: Cynthia
CASE NUMBER: 51Z0Y230B5505
LOCATION: West Sacramento, CA
THE SITUATION: Cynthia discovered a drawn face in the mirror. She has no explanation on who drew the face on the mirror. Cynthia lives near Jefferson Street in West Sacramento and on Jefferson Street she saw a full body shadow crossing the street. Cynthia says she is bipolar and feels this is the reason why she is being attacked by the entities in her home. Cynthia hears voices in her head telling her to do this or to do that. The haunting has been happening for 7 years. One of the entities is extremely mean to Cynthia. The entity will sit on her chest. Cynthia says there are about 20 entities in her home and sometimes they will move the furniture around. Cynthia actually claims that one of the entities who is nice to her, paid her Metro bill for 3 months. I asked Cynthia on how this entity was able to have money to pay for her bill for 3 months. Cynthia had no answer for me. One of the entities takes and hides her medicine. Another entity wants to destroy everything in the house. Sometime the entities will go into Cynthia's body. Cynthia was at work and had to get off the phone and will call me back.

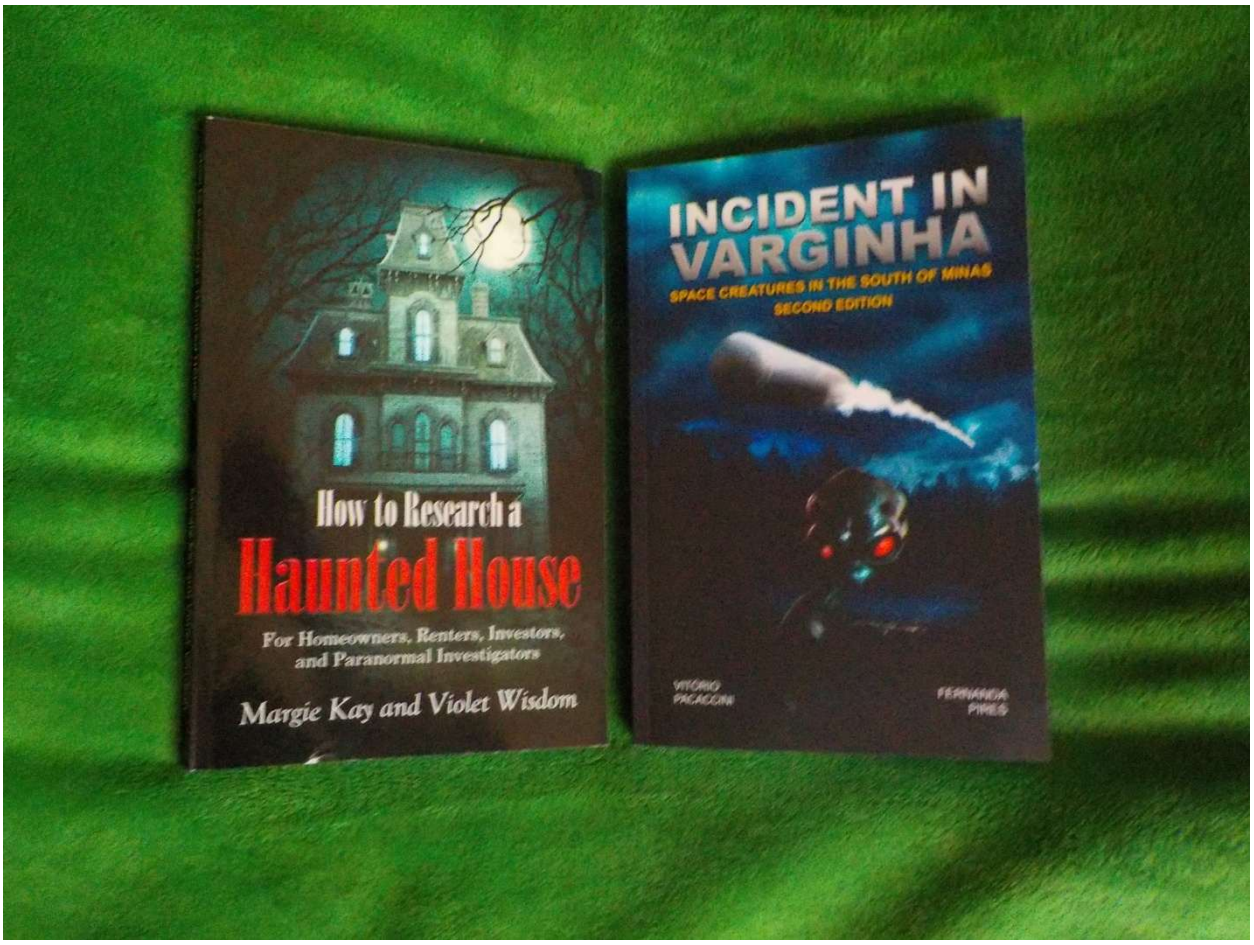
Title: How to Research a Haunted House
(For Homeowners, Renters, Investors, and Paranormal Investigators)
Authors: Margie Kay and Violet Wisdom
Publisher: Un-X Media www.unxmedia.com
Reviewed by: Paul Dale Roberts, Fortean Investigator - Halo Paranormal Investigations



Comments: In the beginning of the book author Violet Wisdom explains why it is important to research the history of a house. Your house might be qualified to be on the National Registry of Historic Places. Your house might be eligible for tax credits, etc. There are many reasons to know the history of your home, that will be beneficial for the future homeowner. The most important question would be..."is my house haunted?" Other questions will follow. By whom? Why haven't they gone into the light? Why are they attached to this house? Are they negative spirits? As you can see there are a million questions to be asked, when it comes to researching a haunted house. This book is like a bible for researching a haunted house. It gives you information on researching the address, library resources, local historical societies, land patents, etc. This book takes you down many avenues. When you purchase a house, you have the deed. But, looking at the history of where that house is, you will uncover more history. Who were the indigenous people that once inhabited this property? Also, it depends where your house is located at. Is it located at where once it was The Louisiana Territory? Was the land once occupied by Vikings? Is the house located on the territory that was once known as New Amsterdam? Yes, while researching your property, you will open a can of worms and discover that there is more history than you thought. This book lays it out on the line. You will be amazed. This book also provides information on how to research local graveyards, especially small family graveyards. The author Margie Kay shares her adventure in researching the history of her home. This home was located in Springfield, MO. Margie in doing her research of her family home that we will call the Elevator House, discovers that it has a connection to the Border War/Civil War. The home was owned by a doctor. The doctor was an odd dentist that collected patient's teeth. The dentist later in life committed suicide. Margie finds herself going into a rabbit hole with her research and discovers all kinds of unique things about her house and property. Margie's home is just one example. Previously, I mentioned this book is like a "bible". Questions pop up and solutions to these questions are provided in this book. Questions like "was someone killed in or near the house?" "did someone die in the house?" "was any criminal activity mentioned in news articles?" "is the house near a graveyard?". I suggest that anyone who wants to know how to research a house, pick up this important book, it has ALL the answers. A masterpiece when it comes to researching your house!

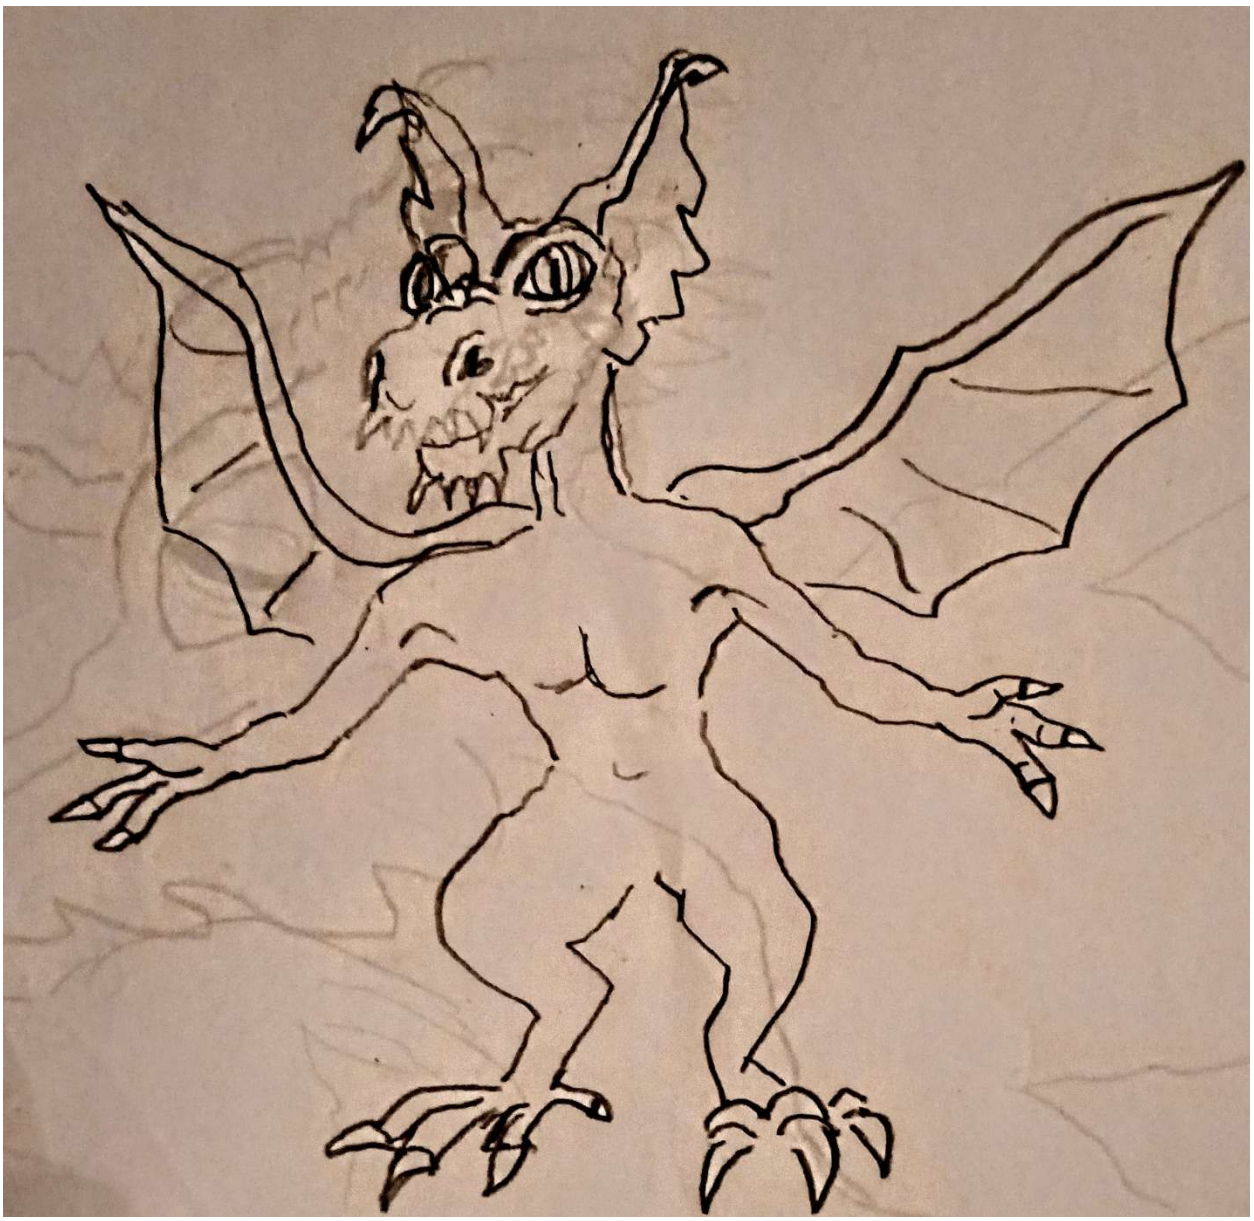
(Space Creatures in the South of Minas - 2nd Edition)
Authors: Vitorio Pacaccini & Fernanda Pires
Publisher: Un-X Media www.unxmedia.com
Reviewed by: Paul Dale Roberts, Fortean Investigator - Halo Paranormal Investigations
Comments: The Varginha Incident refers to a series of events in 1996 in Varginha, Brazil, involving claims of UFO sightings and encounters with alleged extraterrestrial beings, leading to it being dubbed "Brazil's Roswell". Witnesses reported seeing a cigar-shaped object crash outside the city. Three young women claimed to have encountered a creature described as a large-headed biped with "spots like veins on the skin and some bumps on the head," and "eyes were two red balls". They said the creature seemed "wobbly or unsteady" and appeared injured or sick. Rumors of additional creature sightings, military activity, unexplained animal deaths at a local zoo, and even a police officer's death that could be linked to the Varginha incident. Some sources claim the military captured and transported the extraterrestrial occupants, with some even claiming a U.S. Air Force plane removed the evidence. In this book, you get a blow-by-blow description of the incident. You find all of the information about this incident in this one shock filled book. It is horrifying to read in this book, on how this possible extraterrestrial creature was being harassed at the Jardim Andere neighborhood. Kids were throwing stones at the creature and the creature had to go down the ravine and hide in the bushes. When they located the creature, her eyes were big and red (like a frog). The creature's eyes were outwards, with no pupil, eyelashes or eyelids. The creature's mouth was just a small tear and two holes where the nose used to be. There were no ears. Just 3 lumps sticking out of the sides and center of its head. It had large feet that were disproportionate to its body. The creature was naked and had a protruding belly. If you ever wanted to know what this creature looked like, you find the description in this book done in an exceptional way. Very well written. You will find pictures of some of the witnesses in this book, along with other pictures that pertain to the Varginha case. This book looks at the possibility of a crashed UFO and how the military transported the occupants of the UFO. The incident involved the Brazilian Army, Fire Brigade and the US Military. Their mission was to conceal the truth! The Incident in Varginha is one of the most important UFO cases in history and this book provides many of the answers! Standing ovation to the authors for providing the public with the truth through this book! A must read!

WINGED GREMLIN ENCOUNTER

Boondock Mojo CORY COLE <boondockmojocorycole@gmail.com>

Hello Paul. My name is Cory Cole. I'm just a country boy, born and raised in Southwest Oklahoma just a few miles North of the Ok Red River and for 52 years it's been my home. Ive never done an official paranormal investigation but I've had so many paranormal experiences that I'd have a difficult time counting them all. The paranormal experience that made a serious impact on my life and a very good friend of mine's life, happened at a small cemetery in 1995.

Since then almost every paranormal, supernatural and cryptid encounter (except for the winged gremlin encounter) happened when we were together. I was a little upset I didn't get to see it but you can't win em all. He came directly to my house after it happened, pale faced and still in shock. He he was welding on something under the carport in front of his home when he flipped up his welding hood, it either jumped or flew out of the tree in his front yard, over the hood of his wife's Camaro and landed less than 6 feet in front of him.About 2 and a half feet tall. It's wings were attached on its back just below its crooked neck. Its 2 arms were separate from it's wings. It had a dead squirrel in one hand, taking a bite of it much like a little kid eating and stretching a bar of taffy. He said it's eyes were backlit, corona colored, emitting its own light. It's pupils we're slit vertical.



He tried to capture it on video with his iPhone but it was emitting some type of interference. He said it stayed for at least 5 minutes. He switched his phone from Video to Photo Camera and the interference wasn't quite as bad but still didn't have color. He took a few pics before it hopped off into the darkness.

We got his son to clean up one pic with his laptop and this is the best he could do. If you look close, you can see where it's wings are attached to its back. If you're wondering why it's ears are outlined, Jeremy and I both lost the pic on our phones but I remembered sharing the pic with a friend of ours and we got lucky. She had to go back almost 2 years through her old messages to retrieve it. Talk about lucky. She asked me where it's ears were located in the photo and I told her to outline where she thought they were located. That's why they're outlined. I also had Jeremy draw a quick sketch of the winged gremlin. He's an amazing artist but I wouldn't let him spend 2 days drawing it. He didn't want anyone to see his sketch because he's a perfectionist and I wanted it simple. LoL I'll attach the sketch with the pic.

We sincerely thank Paul Dale Roberts for his insightful and enthusiastic review of both How to Research a Haunted House and Incident in Varginha. His recognition of these works, published by Un-X Media, highlights their significance within the paranormal and ufological communities.

Roberts' review of Incident in Varginha acknowledges the gravity and importance of the 1996 Brazilian case, often called "Brazil's Roswell." We are especially grateful for his recognition of the book's emotional and factual depth, as well as the authors' commitment to documenting eyewitness testimony and military involvement. His praise "a must read!" and "standing ovation to the authors" is both humbling and deeply appreciated.

Thank you so much Margie for all your dedication and hard work and we extend our gratitude to Paul Dale Roberts for his continued support of truth-seeking literature and investigative excellence.

END OF MESSAGE.

Cory Cole refers to this cryptid as a "gremlin", because to Cory and his friend Jeremy, this is what a gremlin looks like. While there haven't been that many confirmed sightings of gremlins, the concept of gremlins as mischievous, plane-sabotaging creatures originated in folklore and gained popularity during World War II. Pilots and flight crews would attribute mechanical failures and accidents to these imaginary creatures, often jokingly referred to as "gremlins". The term became widely known through Roald Dahl's book "The Gremlins" and later through the movie "Gremlins".

Gremlins may be a work of fiction, but our World War II pilots were facing something else, that may be considered "paranormal". They were facing "foo fighters".

During World War II, "foo fighters" referred to as unidentified flying objects (UFOs) or strange aerial phenomena reported by Allied pilots, particularly those in the 415th Night Fighter Squadron, in both the European and Pacific theaters. These objects were often described as glowing orbs of light, sometimes appearing in formation with aircraft, and capable of rapid and erratic movements. While initially thought to be secret enemy weapons, investigations into the sightings, which included theories about electrostatic phenomena, optical illusions, and even hallucinations, ultimately yielded no conclusive explanation. Some Ufologists believe that foo fighters were a type of UFO/UAP or they could also be some kind of extraterrestrial spy drone. During my time in the Army, I met a couple of World War II pilots in 1973 who claim that the "gremlins" that caused problems with their fighter planes came from the foo fighters.

The closest I came in finding a true gremlin encounter is with the Hopkinsville Goblins. It appears that these goblins look similar to gremlins. The Kelly-Hopkinsville encounter, also known as the "Hopkinsville Goblins" or "Kelly Green Men" case, is a famous 1955 incident in which a Kentucky family claimed to have been besieged by small, alien-like creatures. The encounter, which lasted for hours, involved the family firing at the creatures, who they said were impervious to bullets. The incident became a well-known case in UFO lore and has been the subject of much debate and speculation. In the Kelly-Hopkinsville encounter, witnesses described the alleged alien creatures as small, humanoid figures, roughly 2 to 4 feet tall, with large, pointed ears, glowing yellow eyes, and claw-like hands. They were also described as having spindly legs and a goblin-like appearance, leading to the nickname "Hopkinsville Goblins". Some accounts mentioned their movements as floating or swaying, with bobbing heads and a metallic "pink" sound when shot at. As you can see the Hopkinsville Goblins could have been easily called the Hopkinsville Gremlins. The Hopkinsville Goblins were very mischievous and enjoyed harassing the family.

The gremlin mythology started with the idea of gremlins as a cause for mechanical problems became widespread among RAF pilots during World War II, especially in high-altitude units. Are gremlins fictional, or do they have some kind of foundation of truth? It was definitely a way to cope with the stress and dangers of wartime flying. The concept of gremlins evolved to encompass any kind of mechanical failure, even extending to household appliances. The 1984 movie "Gremlins" cemented the gremlin concept in popular culture and gives an idea on what gremlins are supposed to look like. The two WWII pilots that I met in 1974 described gremlins as having long pointed ears, wrinkled face, green-grey colored skin and about 3 feet tall. According to the two WWII pilots, the gremlins piloted the foo fighters. The gremlins were able to fly next to the aircraft and materialize on the aircraft and then re-materialized into their foo-fighter orb and fly off.

Entities of the Mind: West Sacramento
Paul Dale Roberts, HPI's Esoteric Detective
Halo Paranormal Investigations

This West Sacramento case is at times typical in my paranormal investigations. This is a case that actually needs to be dealt with by a professional psychiatrist. When I received this call, I did not turn away Cynthia (the client). I was able to provide her with temporary help to cope with her issues. I provided her with a placebo effect, and I will explain this later. I was also fortunate that Cynthia listened to me and will seek help from a psychiatrist. Below is the information I received from my first call from Cynthia.

TIME: 11:22 AM PACIFIC
CALLER: Cynthia
CASE NUMBER: 51Z0Y230B5505
LOCATION: West Sacramento, CA
THE SITUATION: Cynthia discovered a drawn face in the mirror. She has no explanation on who drew the face on the mirror. Cynthia lives near Jefferson Street in West Sacramento and on Jefferson Street she saw a full body shadow crossing the street. Cynthia says she is bipolar and feels this is the reason why she is being attacked by the entities in her home. Cynthia hears voices in her head telling her to do this or to do that. The haunting has been happening for 7 years. One of the entities is extremely mean to Cynthia. The entity will sit on her chest. Cynthia says there are about 20 entities in her home and sometimes they will move the furniture around. Cynthia actually claims that one of the entities who is nice to her, paid her Metro bill for 3 months. I asked Cynthia on how this entity was able to have money to pay for her bill for 3 months. Cynthia had no answer for me. One of the entities takes and hides her medicine. Another entity wants to destroy everything in the house. Sometime the entities will go into Cynthia's body. Cynthia was at work and had to get off the phone and will call me back.

END OF REPORT

In Cythia's report there were many red flags. When she mentions "hearing voices" this falls back on her mental disability of being bipolar. Some individuals experience auditory hallucinations, or "hearing voices," due to various factors, including mental health conditions, neurological issues, and even sleep disturbances or stress. While often associated with schizophrenia, hearing voices is not exclusive to this condition and can occur in other mental health challenges like bipolar disorder or PTSD, as well as due to neurological conditions like Parkinson's disease or dementia. Stress, grief, sleep deprivation, and even certain medications can also trigger auditory hallucinations. I talked with Cynthia many times after her first contact phone call to me. I learned that she has a sleeping disorder. On many nights she tells me that her mind runs wild and she can't sleep. Sometimes a dark figure will stand over her bed and watch her, causing her to stay awake. I have been on 2500 investigations and only one investigation that I had in Galt, CA, in which a so-called psychic was trying to tell me that 50 entities were in the client's bathroom. My other psychics scoffed at the idea. Why would 50 ghosts hang out in the bathroom? When Cynthia told me that there were 20 ghosts and demons in her home, I had to step back and wonder how she came up with this number. This was another red flag in her claims of having a haunting in her home.

I am not a doctor, but I do know that with mental health conditions, hearing voices is a common symptom in schizophrenia, where individuals may perceive voices that aren't actually present. Cynthia says she is bipolar. With the bipolar disorder you may have auditory hallucinations. This can happen during manic or depressive episodes with the bipolar disorder. Cynthia had a horrible childhood and was sexually abused by her uncle. With an incident like this, she may have Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder (PTSD). PTSD can be caused by traumatic experiences that can lead to auditory hallucinations, sometimes including voices related to the trauma. Cynthia also mentions that sometimes she gets depressed. With severe depression can be accompanied by auditory hallucinations. The ghosts and demons that Cynthia sees inside her home can be visual hallucinations. I sent two of my investigators to her home and they captured no evidence, nothing in their photographs, no EVPs, nothing. It was time for the placebo effect.

To help Cynthia I provided the placebo effect. I had a long talk with her about seeing a psychiatrist. She agreed that she would contact Kaiser and make an appointment. This was good news. Instead of telling Cynthia that she has mental problems, I listened to her story of being haunted by ghosts and demons. I did not talk down to her, nor was I condescending. I provided Cythia with information about how to do a self-cleansing of her home using a crucifix and holy water. I also suggested that she should get a full submersion baptism (a basic form of exorcism). Cynthia followed my instructions. With her follow-up call, she was very pleased with my placebo effect and said most of the entities left her house. Cynthia says the voices in her head have simmered down. The placebo effect seemed to work.

The placebo effect is a phenomenon where a person experiences a positive or negative change in their condition after receiving a sham treatment, like a sugar pill or saline injection, even though it has no inherent therapeutic value. This improvement is attributed to the patient's belief in the treatment and their expectations of feeling better, rather than any direct physiological effect of the substance itself.

Instead of giving Cynthia a "pill", I empowered her with the belief that she could self-cleanse her own home, with the help of angels. That Cynthia and the angels, that she calls upon can actually banish the ghosts and demons of her home. Cynthia did mention that she asked the angels to keep around the entities that watch over her and especially keep the ghost who paid her metro bill for 3 months. I must admit, if I had a ghost that paid my Verizon bill or even my Comcast bill, I would want that ghost to stay around. Especially if I can get a ghost to pay my mortgage payments. That is something Cynthia and I, both agreed on. Cynthia is very happy with the outcome and is making her doctor appointments. CASE CLOSED.

NEW ZEALAND

Based on local legends and reported sightings, the Otago region of New Zealand is considered by many to be a haunted area.
Here are some notable examples:

- Larnach Castle
  : Situated in Dunedin, it's New Zealand's only castle and is steeped in local lore, with tales of the tragic Larnach family haunting its halls. The spirits of William Larnach and his first wife, Kate, are reportedly seen wandering the grounds.
- Vulcan Hotel
  : Located in the old gold mining town of St. Bathans, this hotel is home to "The Rose", the ghost of a young woman said to have been murdered in one of the rooms in the 1880s. Guests and staff have reported encountering her spirit, with one manager describing her as a "general toe rag" who locks and unlocks doors and moves things around.
- Former Seacliff Lunatic Asylum
  : This site is also rumored to be haunted by former patients.
- Dunedin Central
  : This suburb boasts the highest number of haunted locations within the region, with seven reported sites.

While many of these stories are anecdotal and are not scientifically proven, they form a strong part of the local culture and attract visitors interested in the paranormal.

Special Note: When Patricia Mary Mitchell, my stepson Jason Randall Porter and I, visited Aukland, NZ, we also visited Larnach Castle.

The Ghosts of Volcano

By Paul Dale Roberts, HPI Ghostwriter

It's May 31, 2008, Saturday and it's time for another preliminary scouting mission. It's time for me to head over and pick up a lady who met me first through my articles and later became a ghosthunter with HPI. Her name is Carrina Hanson aka Swedish Carrina. Carrina has been to Volcano before and knows every short cut to get to this small town. Believe me, there are many forks on the road and no road signs, it's easy to get lost. Carrina is a walking, talking GPS system and got us there safely. Let me tell you a bit about Carrina. Carrina is a Wiccan with flowing blonde hair to her waist and sparkling blue eyes. She is ready to do her first preliminary. We arrive at our first stop, the town of Volcano. Volcano started in 1848 by soldiers of Colonel Stevensons' regiment. They named the town Volcano, because the miners told them it had a volcanic appearance, due to low settling fog. Volcano is also know as the town with the first astronomical observatory built in 1860 by miner and astronomer George Madeira. As we entered into the town of Volcano after driving up some winding roads, we immediately saw St. George Hotel, built in 1863. The frame of this hotel was actually began in 1852 by John Meyers. The hotel was originally called the Eureka House, at that time it was a boarding house. It burned down 3 times and rebuilt 3 times and each time it had a new name that went from Empire Hotel, George Hotel and finally the St. George Hotel. The first person I interviewed was lovely bartender named Megan Scott at the Whiskey Flat Saloon that is located inside the hotel. She explains that she was smacked in the arm with a flying quarter. The quarter came at her like a line drive and pelted her good on the arm. That was her first paranormal experience she ever had in the hotel. A guest once told her that they saw an old man sitting on a chair wearing confederate clothes and singing a song that resembled a Civil War ballad. The smell of cigar smoke resonated through the room when the apparition was sitting on the chair. As the guest watched, the apparition dissipated.

Can I take a small break from this article? I can. Thanks. Let's check out some of the pictures from Volcano at this location.

Okay, let's resume with my story.

The next person I interviewed was Victoria Wertheimer, she is the head housekeeper. With a big smile, she tells me that on the third floor the lights dimmed out in all the rooms one time. Then on each bed, there was an imprint as if someone had sat on all the beds or laid on them. She had guests tell her that they have seen a little girl apparition and also have felt cold spots in certain areas of the hotel. Some guests believe the little girl is from the Union Hotel which is only a block away. The guests feel she visits both hotels. Victoria tells me that this is not the first time she has experienced the paranormal, while in a boarding school in Redding called the Bar 717 Ranch. She learned that the former owner of this ranch named Grover Gates was buried on the property. Many times as a little girl she remembers the rocking chair moving back and forth on its own accord and the doors opening by themselves. Victoria heads back to do her chores and comes back with one more story, she tells me that in the Jim Town Room of the hotel, she constantly feels like she is being watched. Richard Winters the owner of the hotel confirmed everything that his employees told me.

While Carrina makes a sweep of the hotel to see if she can get any photographic evidence, we reconvene to decide where we will scout out next. While we make our decision, I ask my HPI ghosthunter-in-training if she ever had a paranormal experience. She tells me that when she lived in an apartment on Antelope in Sacramento, she had many experiences. Her two year old daughter once was pointing to the ceiling and yelled..."there is a dead baby on the ceiling". While sleeping on the couch, she saw her deceased grandmother. When she saw her grandmother, she felt like it was an out-of-body experience. Another time a salt shaker fell off the shelf by itself. She saw a man with a blurry face sitting in front of her apartment and in a surreal mode of reality, the entity followed her into the apartment and went into her child's room and then just sat there and watched her. When this occurred, she felt a paralysis come upon her, where she was unable to move. She has seen weird shadows move around in that apartment. She felt so relieved when moving out of this apartment. Now the only thing she has experienced recently is that the store that she works at, is reputed to be haunted. Employees have smelled cologne in the room and some times things fly off the shelves.

Carrina and I, explored the town of Volcano and discovered some of the history. The Unionist Volcano Blues fought against the Confederate Knights of the Golden Circle at an area of the town of Volcano. The Adolph Meyers Cigar Emporium was established in Volcano in 1855. They sold retail cigars for $10.00 and $125.00 for a thousand cigars. Post Civil War it became the Lavezzo Wine Shop. One of the most interesting places in Volcano are the historic cemeteries. There is the Catholic Volcano Pioneer Cemetery that is across the way from the Methodist Volcano Pioneer Cemetery. The earliest internment in these cemeteries was on 11/11/1850.

After our cemetery visit, we headed over to the Volcano Union Inn. We talked with Laurie Lockhart - Owner/Proprietress. Check out www.volcanounioninn.net She tells me that things move around and disappear all the time. Sarah the little ghost girl will make her appearance known to patrons and staff. Once she felt she got poked by Sarah. She tells me that the first murder of Amador County happened at this hotel. They took the murderer into the town of Jackson and hung him on the town's hanging tree. The hotel sometimes has strange giggling, sneezing and laughter coming out from the rooms or hallway. She has heard her name called by a man and sometimes by a woman. She has heard pool balls breaking and there is no one in the lobby of the hotel. Chris Chastain, the head chef has heard conversations and has heard ghostly footsteps in the hallway. Chris actually lives in the hotel. Once a man fell off the balcony to his death, he was a cigar smoker. Sometimes guests smell his cigar from the balcony he fell off. Laurie has experienced the paranormal at this hotel, but the one experience she will never forget is when in 1988 she saw a full body apparition of a cowboy in Room 1 of the Imperial Hotel in Amador City. Now that she told us about the Imperial Hotel, Carrina looks at me and says..."when we head back home, let's stop at this hotel". Finally Laurie told us that her daughter has seen the ghosts of the hotel and has pointed at an entity that only she could see. Laurie shows us an old Civil War shirt she found inside the hotel war, it was tattered and torn and smelled moldy. This hotel has a lot of history.

As we headed back home, we made our stop at the Imperial Hotel in Amador City. The address is: 14202 State Highway 49. We talked with the owner Mary Ann McCamant. When she came to this establishment there was this moving odor that would go from one room to another. The odor is now gone, because she leaves out a shot of whiskey for the entity. Genevieve Allen, an employee of the hotel has smelled the same 'funk' and claims it has left the hotel, because of the shots of whiskey that is left out for the smelly entity. A woman with a long white dress has been seen by guests of the hotel. She has been seen mostly in the cellar. If they don't see the lady in the long white dress, they see a white mist. Another employee said that they saw a crouched down apparition on top of the cabinet. For more information on the Imperial Hotel, check out www.imperialamador.com or email them at info@imperialamador.com

The Specter of Monster Turk

By Paul Dale Roberts, HPI Ghostwriter/Ghosthunter

I received an email the other day from a source unknown. The email reads in part: "Hi, you don't know me, but I feel I know you. I read enough of your articles. You should scout out the abandoned California Youth Authority along Ramona Avenue. Some people have seen a full body apparition of a kid, that wears a white t-shirt and bluejeans. Some people in my neighborhood think it's a kid nicknamed Monster Turk, because the apparition fits the description. Monster Turk was an extortionist while at the California Youth Authority Reception Center and the other juvenile delinquents didn't like him. The other kids were planning to shank him. They found him the next day hung by his neck in his room. He got his nickname, because he was a monster and he may have been of Turkish descent." After reading this, I knew it was time for a preliminary scouting investigation. The date is April 18, 2008, Friday. Code 8910. Now, some of you will wonder what the code means. I really wish I could tell you, but it's very essential to this scouting investigation and I can't disclose the code reference, I have the code mentioned for historical purposes only.

I briefed Michele Stump, HPI paranormal investigator about the email I received and Michele told me that she knew exactly where the abandoned California Youth Authority is, because she has seen it many times while riding the lightrail. Michele being one of our HPI researcher/historians, (we actually have two researcher/historians, the other is Kristen Sheley) discovered that this facility was the reception center for young offenders. This receptionist center was sort of a way station, where offenders received psychiatric evaluation and waited to be placed in permanent correctional facilities. In 2004 this reception center was closed down. Michele goes on to tell me that youth offenders with psychiatric problems stayed at this facility the longest. Many of these youth offenders with psychiatric problems were suicidal or had the tendency to commit violence on other offenders. According to my anonymous email, Monster Turk was extremely violent.

Michele and I used digital cameras and digital audio recorders for our investigation. We separated during our investigation and at some point of time, Michele is relaying that she saw what she thought was a person. When she investigated to see if this person was in the location where she saw him walking, there was no one there, as if he vanished. Michele states that it didn't appear to be a full body apparition, but of a living person. She described the person as a man, Hispanic nationality carrying a cloth bag. The person moved from one area into another area. She investigated the area in question and there was no one there. She has no explanation for this mysterious person, but took a picture at the location where he was last seen. The picture showed an orb. EVPs are still pending. Michele will be going over her recordings and I will be going over my recordings.

The California Youth Authority covers a lot of land and at some point, I kept cellular phone contact with Michele as I sat in my car as she continued to investigate. I was trying to get through my book 'Space Vulture by Gary K. Wolf & Archbishop John J. Myers', when finally my cell rang and it was Michele, she was packing it up finally. She still can't figure out how a full grown man could have disappeared so fast and he was only a mere 30 feet from her.

Our next stop was the house at the end of Trujillo Way. This house according to the neighborhood urban legend is reputed to be haunted. It's legend almost equals to the house on 22nd & H Street. It's a huge two story wooden house that is surrounded by a forest of trees and wild shrubbery. We could only do an outside perimeter investigation for EVPs and photographic evidence. The house may have a reputation of being haunted, because it looks haunted. It reminded me of the Addam's Family mansion. What I would do to get inside this old house. EVPs from this house are still pending and there is no photographic evidence of this house being haunted.

But, this is something that HPI does, if we get information and if someone is requesting a scouting investigation, they usually contact me, the head scoutmaster paranormal investigator. I love to do reconnaissance missions, it reminds me of my days in the Army. If you feel you have something worthwhile, I will scout it out and see what all the fuss is about. This scouting mission was inconclusive, but it was sure fun to explore!

One of the places that we will be revisiting is Mt. Shasta. I took a scouting party to Mt. Shasta to look for UFOs and Bigfoot that are reputed to frequent this mountain. There is a story that I didn't tell my scouts. Sure, I told them about the Last of the Lemurians, but did you know that astronomer Edgar Eugene Larkin was once testing his telescope at Mt. Shasta and spied upon three gold domed marble temples on one of the slopes? What he was looking at was an interdimensional city that belongs to the Lemurians. The temples he saw, were the secret city of the Lemurians. The townsfolk describe Lemurians as tall, long-haired, white robed people. The wore headbands to cover the pineal third eyes protruding from their foreheads. The Lemurians were known to trade gold dust with the locals. When people tried to photograph the beings, they would disappear into the shadows or dissipate into nothingness. According to Rosicrucian author Harve Spencer Lewis, the Lemurians would hold ceremonies, chanting as they would encircle a fire. The Lemurians also fly in UFO-like boats around Mt. Shasta. The last time we went to Mt. Shasta, some of the investigators saw UFOs in the night sky and one of our investigators took a picture of a UFO during broad daylight. Yes, I would love to go back to Mt. Shasta! Mt. Shasta is as mysterious as Stonehenge or Sedonia. Some people think that Mt. Shasta is a center point for ley lines and that is one of the reasons why it's so enchanted, it's a portal into other dimensions.

Gold Rush Ghosts Saga: The Friendly Hauntings of the Albert Shafsky House B&B By Paul Dale Roberts, GRG Ghostwriter

Sometimes when I go to Blockbuster Video, I pick up a few horror movies, like Thirteen Ghosts. That was one scary movie, in which every ghost is hideous and is an imminent threat to the guest's well-being. Ummm...how come I never run into Thirteen Ghosts that will scare the living daylights out of me? Case example, I get a call from Robert Reppert - Head Investigator of Gold Rush Ghosts and his lovely wife Nancy Bradley - Celebrity Psychic. They run down a story to me about a preliminary investigation that Robert Reppert, Rodney Roberts and Catherine Noble did at the Albert Shafsky House B&B. The story is intriguing. Robert wants me on the official investigation. Robert has me hooked, because he also mentions an Indiana Jones meets the Winchester House type of discovery. Robert discovered a stairwell in the basement area that leads to nowhere!

When I arrive to Nancy's home, the paranormal investigative team gathers: Robert Reppert - Head Investigator, Nancy Bradley - Psychic Extraordinaire, Rodney Roberts - Technician, Brian Abeel - Evidence Analyst and of course me, Paul Dale Roberts - Ghostwriter. We gather all the equipment that we will be using this evening of Sunday - May 18, 2008, which includes: thermal reader, digital audio recorders, digital cameras, video cameras, temperature gauges, EMF Readers. We all pile up in the official GRG Truck and head over to the Shafsky House - www.shafsky.com / 2942 Coloma Street, Placerville, CA 95667.

We are greeted by the owners Rita Timewell and Stephanie Carlson. Two very sweet ladies that have stories to tell. Nancy and I, conducted the interviews for her show Journey into the Paranormal. With the interviews, I learn that Albert Shafsky and his wife Dora Shafsky aka Kitty came to Placerville in 1901. Albert was a dry goods salesman and opened up a department store on Main Street. He was the first man to have glass show windows and he had a milliner who made lady's hats. He built a beautiful home for his wife Kitty and their 2 year old daughter Alberta. He later had 3 more daughters, Verah, Bernice & Jeane. He was to later have a son named Boyd, born in Oakland. Albert became well known in the community and was elected City Council Member from 1906 to 1910 and Mayor of Placerville from 1906 to 1908. Albert and his three brothers came from Kishinvev, Moldavia. His daughter Alberta lived for 103 years. Albert Shafsky is descended from Kopel Yarashafsky of Modavia.

After gathering all of the history about the Shafskys, I wanted to know the experiences of Rita and Stephanie. I wanted to know what the guests also felt in this spacious bed and breakfast. While I was getting the information from Rita and Stephanie, Nancy sensed their was a ghostly fuzzy white dog and a ghostly tabby cat that was still roaming around in the premises of this home. As the interview continued, I learn that Rita and Stephanie owned the home for 6 years, they absolutely fell in love with the enchanting personality of this home. They have both experienced hearing heavy footsteps on the second floor, books being flown off the shelves, lightbulbs being unscrewed. They will also find pennies laying about the house. Mrs. Shafsky was known to save pennies. Nancy was feeling the presence of a small child in the neighboring room. Later she feels that two kids are playing. Could this perhaps be the children of Albert & Kitty? Rita and Stephanie at times hear piano music playing in the lounge room. Sometimes they smell cherry pipe smoke from 7:30pm to 8:30pm in the evening. On this very night, the cherry pipe smoke aroma filled the room for a matter of a few minutes during the interview process.

I learn that during storms, the activity seems to increase, as if the entities may be drawing energy from the ion particles in the atmosphere. Guests have seen a man on the stairs, it has been suggested that the man is Albert Shafsky himself. Shoes have been placed in order underneath the bed by an unseen force. We later learn that Kitty Shafsky's mother Thora Bean died in this home. Nancy conducting a psychic reading of the house, discovers that Albert Shafsky and his wife Kitty are here in this home. She also feels Alberta, Boyd and Bernice are still here. Nancy feels that it is Kitty, who is playing the piano in the lounge area room. Nancy picks up the fact that two dogs are buried in the backyard and the ghostly presence of the fuzzy white dog and tabby cat are also in this home. There was one more entity that Nancy picked up on, she said that Marian Wing a former resident of this home is still here making her haunting presence known.

Nancy picks up more energy signatures that indicate that Boyd had some kind of breathing problem and she could see Kitty beating on a rug outside on the porch. She said that Kitty was always concerned on the condition of her floors, she wanted the floors cleaned and tidy. Going through some old notes on the Shafsky, I found something comical. When Albert Shafsky was a little boy, he was on a ship with his father, he wanted to know what the time was and picked up an English dictionary to say "what o'clock is it?" and instead accidentally said "son of a bitch".

The entities of this home, seem to be completely benevolent, they mean no harm to the owners and only want to make their presence known at certain times. Since little children are seen, this home probably has a combination of residual haunting activity in which an act replays itself over and over again. Case example, the children playing in the adjourning room. The children could possibly be the children of Albert & Kitty Shafsky. There seems to be some intelligent activity with the books flying off the shelf, as possibly one of the entities is trying to make a statement or let the owners know that he or she is around. With this beautiful bed and breakfast there is absolutely nothing to fear. If you ever stay at this bed and breakfast, you will even be greeted by the cutest miniature dachshund named Lily. Lily has detected presences in this home too. She will bark at an area where there is nothing there to be seen.

The Shafsky House is pretty popular, since established people of Hollywood have stayed here. Such as the location scouts for the movie Memoirs of a Geisha and the Director of the movie trailer Pirates of the Caribbean has stayed here too. Steve Hanks the well known artist has comfortably stayed the night at the Shafsky House to rejuvenate from his travels. If there was a haunted home I want to live in, the Shafsky House is right there on my list!

Now let's see what Robert's FINDINGS and CONCLUSION are. Did Robert's team capture EVPs or any photographic evidence? Let's see, Robert take it away:

ROBERT REPPERT'S FINDINGS AND CONCLUSION:
ROBERT REPPERT: There was a great amount of voice phenomena in the kitchen area, and also in the area where the piano once was. The voice phenomena was extremely audible on the stairs, and it is clear that you can hear Albert Shafsky say "Christmas party" which was interesting in itself, as he was Jewish. He speaks of a "holiday party" for the children, his and his friends, keeping them upstairs until the downstairs is ready for them to see. He also says the word "Memorial". Both these are clearly heard when he was on the stairs, and in the kitchen his voice is heard as well, as is his wife 'Kitty'. We will do further work on getting those words clearly off our equipment, this is a preliminary finding.

There was a great amount of orb actrivity at the bottom of the stairs where the unseen steps go under the building, as well as in the Albert Shafsky bedroom. Shadows appear in the kitchen, stairs, and living quarters which will need further investigation. As we go through the voice phenomena with a fine tooth comb, it is clear there are other words. This is truly a haunted building.

One more thing. Nancy was able to identify that there was a piano in the living room, and was surprised it was on an outside wall. She was concerned as she plays the piano herself, and knows that all pianos must be kept on an inside wall so as not to allow for moisture. However, she has a clarification for the door next to the piano. On first observation she thought it was opened with shelves inside and perhaps some brass parts for instruments. Upon looking at it closer she is certain at 100% that what she thought was shelves, was WOOD PILED UP SIDEWAYS, making it appear to be shelve like. The shiny objects are at the end of what appears to be a wood holding device, so the opening next to the piano held firewood, and the cabinet led to the outside of the building.

This is a truly haunted Victorian building with wonderful clear and happy energy. We do not have Brian or Rodney's findings on their equipment as yet. We intend to come back and spend our anniversary here in November with Stephanie and Rita over a glass or two of wine, our two new friends, seeing what else may be going on.

One more thing, let's see what our Evidence Analyst Brian Abeel and Technician Rodney Roberts have to say:

HPI on Coast-to-Coast AM with George Noory. Well, almost…….

The day is Feb 18, 2008, Monday - President's Day and my home phone is ringing off the hook. I thought to myself..."who would be calling me this early in the morning on my home phone, no one calls me on my home phone, they call me on my cell phone!" I pick up the phone and it's my step-son Jason Randall Porter. Jason tells me to turn on CNN News, that the oil refinery in Big Springs, Texas blew up. Sure enough, it was all over CNN News. Jason took some excellent photos of the explosion and I told him to submit the photos to CNN and to CoasttoCoastAM.

I get an email from Tom Danheiser, Assistant Producer of CoasttoCoastAM and he gives me his telephone number to call him. Not thinking that Jason submitted the photos to CoasttoCoastAM, I call Tom. I am thinking that he wants me on the show to talk about H.P.I. (Haunted and Paranormal International) or that he wants to talk about my latest article "The Elusive Science of the Paranormal". I am thrilled. Tom tells me he actually wants to interview Jason about the Oil Refinery Explosion in Big Springs, Texas. What the @#$%?

Okay, this is my son, we're talking about, it's okay with me. Tom tells me that I am the back-up for the show, in case Jason doesn't want to do the interview. I tell him that's fine. Anyway, it's midnight in Texas when CoasttoCoastAM calls Jason and Jason is dead asleep. They call me exactly at 10pm. A lovely sounding lady tells me to hold on for George Noory. George is busy talking about the oil refinery explosion and finally he comes on and says, I have Paul Roberts on the line, the father of Mr. Anonymous (he is referring to Jason - Jason doesn't want to disclose his name, because his stepfather who is a chemist at the oil refinery could lose his job if he talks with the media). George says..."Paul, are you there, Paul? Paul?" The lady interrupts and said, "George, we are having phone problems". Then some guy is talking with George and George says, so you are the father of Mr. Anonymous? The guy says: "Nope, you got the wrong dude, you just happened to be on the phone." George finally gives up and the lovely sounding lady tells me.."Sorry, Paul..George wants to move on with the show." I almost got on Coast-to-CoastAM....sigh. I was going to do a sly one and discuss HPI after talking about the Oil Refinery Explosion.

Anyway, here are Jason's photos of the Oil Refinery Explosion in Big Spring, Texas, you will find them here at this link:

Jason Randall Porter aka Mr. Anonymous gets pictures of Oil Refinery Explosion at Big Springs, Texas published at CoasttoCoastAM. Jason is a Big Springs newspaper photographer and is also the supervisor of the newspaper's ad section.

Here at HPI we have a lot of talent and one of our talent paranormal investigators, who is also a historian/researcher for our team, now has a new sci-fi book out on the market, check out the link below to see what book she has available for all of the sci fi aficionados out there!
